

STALINGRAD IS SCENE OF WORST NAZI DEFEAT SINCE BEGINNING OF WAR

London.—Virtually complete destruction of Hitler's proud Stalingrad siege forces of 330,000 men, with the smashing of two crack Nazi armies, killing of 100,000 troops in the last 20 days alone, and capture of a field marshal and 16 generals, was announced by Russia in a triumphant special communique.

Russian troops, who first turned Stalingrad into a valiant fortress and then made it a death trap for the Nazi invaders and scene of the worst German defeat of the war, have wiped out one of the last two remaining German suicide garrisons at the Volga city, crushing the enemy pocket west of the central part of Stalingrad, it was stated in the communique, broadcast by Moscow and recorded here by the Soviet radio monitor.

Taken prisoner was Field Marshal Gen. Friedrich Paulus, commander of the crushed German 6th army and 4th tank army, and 16 of his generals. Paulus, whose promotion from colonel-general was announced only Saturday by the Germans, is the first Nazi field marshal to be taken prisoner in this war.

The Russians declared that information from the captured generals showed the army trapped by the offensive begun in November numbered 330,000 troops, and not 220,000 as first estimated.

In the general offensive launched Jan. 10 "Soviet troops according to incomplete data have destroyed over 100,000 German officers and men," the communique reported.

The 16 captured generals included Lt. Gen. Schmidt, Paulus' chief of staff, and the quartermaster-general of the German 6th army. Of the others, 10 were German major generals, two were German major generals, and two were Rumanian generals.

Seven colonels also were gathered up in the final liquidation drive. Early in January the Russians split the besieged Germans in two, and launched a general offensive for their "annihilation" when the Nazi commanders rejected the ultimatum calling for surrender.

"As is known," the communique continued, "the German troops encircled at Stalingrad between Nov.

23 and Jan. 10, owing to our artillery fire and systematic bombing, and also owing to frost and disease, lost about 140,000 men.

"Thus, since the beginning of the general offensive by our troops, Jan. 10, 1943, the German troops encircled at Stalingrad numbered, together with the reinforcement troops, construction organization, police detachments of the army and a corps of rear detachments, about 190,000 officers and men.

"These figures are confirmed by the general quartermaster of the 6th German army, who stated that on Jan. 10 the German troops encircled outside Stalingrad numbered together with the rear detachments 195,000.

"This data gives still greater importance to the victory of the Soviet troops at Stalingrad."

Besides the bag of high officers, the Soviets also reported capture of the headquarters of the 14th tank corps, 3rd motorized division, and numerous infantry divisions.

Tremendous booty taken in this final phase included 744 planes, 1,517 tanks, 6,523 guns, 1,421 mortars, 7,489 machine-guns, 76,887 rifles, 60,464 trucks, 7,341 motorcycles, 575 armored railway cars, 299 depots with ammunition and military equipment and "a large quantity of their war material," the Soviet announcement added.

BRITISH SUBMARINES

Halt Shipments Going From Italy To Tunisia

London.—A 6,000-ton Italian merchant ship loaded with motor transport has been sunk by a British submarine en route to Tunisia from Italy, Reuters news agency reported in a despatch from Allied headquarters.

The same submarine sank a schooner near Sardinia and a 2,000-ton trawler. Since November, the despatch said, this submarine has accounted for eight enemy ships—two destroyers, two schooners, a trawler and three merchant ships of 6,000, 2,000 and 1,700 tons respectively.

Other submarines torpedoed a 7,000-ton ship and a large merchant vessel in the Gulf of Genoa.

CONTINUED EXPANSION OF THE CANADIAN NAVAL AND AIR FORCES FORECAST FOR 1943

Ottawa.—In a year which promises to see all Canadian forces in action against the enemy on an increasing scale, the Canadian army may not experience further expansion.

For the first time since the war started parliament may pass through its weeks without an official announcement of a program for enlarging the land forces.

"The army program will include the maintenance and reinforcement of the overseas army of two corps and the maintenance of units and formations required for the territorial and coastal defence of Canada and other areas in the western hemisphere," said the speech from the throne.

But continued expansion of the naval and air forces is forecast for 1943 in the speech, which said "The progressive expansion of the navy will be continued," and "The air force will continue its three-fold activities of air training, patrolling our coasts and coastal waters and sharing in aerial combat overseas."

Continued training under the Combined (A.P.) Training Organization in Canada means an expanding Canadian air personnel since Canada furnishes 50 per cent. of the recruits for the combined training organization.

The speech also forecast Canada will assume increased responsibilities for the "maintenance of Canadian airmen and Canadian squadrons serving abroad."

This was taken to mean a continuance of the policy of "Canadianizing" R.A.F. establishments overseas by grouping Canadians together, first in squadrons and then in higher formations.

Owing to limited manpower, it was expected expansion of the army would stop at the point where authorities considered the available men no more than sufficient to reinforce existing formations, provide for expansion of the navy and air force, and maintain the continued flow of supplies from Canadian industry and agriculture.

While the army may not add more divisions, however, its manpower needs will not cease. Replacements are needed constantly and the provision of these is part of the job of maintenance and reinforcement set down in the 1943 program.

USE POISON GAS

Japs Reported To Have Made Futile Attack On Chinese

Chungking.—An official charge that the Japanese army is using poison gas, the first since Britain and U.S. threatened to retaliate if earlier attacks in China were repeated, was made by the Chinese high command. Its communique said gas was used in a futile attack on Chinese positions northwest of Hungtung, in southern Shansi province, Jan. 6.

"They used poison gas, but several hundred of their own men lost their lives as the wind suddenly turned toward their own positions," the communique said.

NEW RATION BOOKS

No. 2 Books To Be Issued Between Feb. 19 and March 1st

Ottawa.—The prices board announced that all persons requiring new ration books must pick them up personally at offices which will be established by distribution chiefs now being appointed throughout Canada by local ration boards. They must at the same time turn in their old books.

The announcement said adult members of a household may, however, obtain books for children in the family. Distribution offices serving urban centres and rural districts will be established roughly on the basis of one to each 500 of population.

The new No. 2 ration books will be issued between Feb. 19 and March 1. Persons holding current books should turn them in to those in charge of distribution between the dates given and fill in the detachable cards at the backs of the books, giving their names and addresses, age (if under 16), serial numbers of the No. 1 books and signatures.

The board said mailed applications for the No. 2 books will not be considered.

Locations of the offices and the hours during which they will be open to the public will be advertised in the press and by notices.

Those living in the areas designated as "remote" by the ration administration do not require ration books, and will not be provided with them in the forthcoming distribution.

FOOD CORPORATION

Has Duty Of Buying Cattle For Domestic Consumption

Ottawa.—A total of 2,576 head of cattle was taken over by the War-time Food Corporation, a government-owned company, between June 30 and July 18 in Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario, said a return tabled in the House of Commons for C. R. Evans (Lib., Maple Creek).

The food corporation has the duty of buying cattle for domestic consumption which might otherwise be exported. The purchases were made to ensure greater beef supplies for domestic use, the return said.

SPEAKER STRESSES THE NEED FOR SOME BASIC CHANGES IN OUR FARM ECONOMY

Calgary.—Not a patched up affair which would resemble the old agricultural economy, but a completely reconstructed plan which would place the farm people of Canada on an equal basis with other well organized economic groups and would result in a well balanced order, was seen by F. M. Clement, dean of the college of agriculture in the University of British Columbia, as the hope for post-war Canada.

The dean addressed the delegates to convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and stressed the necessity for such basic changes being brought about by democratic means.

Democracy, he said, implied the encouragement of the education of the individual, individual initiative and individual liberty in all political, economic and business enterprises. It also meant regulation and control by majority vote so that minorities whose unbridled and careless activities might be detrimental to the community as a whole, might be held in check.

While serious consideration should be given to the job of reconstructing agriculture, the dean declared that the current problem of greater food production in 1943 should be accepted as the immediate responsibility and the objectives should be faced with an equal determination after the war.

Reviewing the development of the industry, he said that the application of scientific knowledge to farming was a comparatively new departure and only within the past 50 years had dawned a new era of agriculture.

The advances which have been made in the application of scientific knowledge, coupled with the use of mechanical equipment, added up to the equivalent of a revolution in primary production in agriculture.

These general opinions were expressed by delegates to the convention.

"It is up to the government of Canada to decide whether the people of Canada want soft drinks or butter and if the decision is in favor of butter, then the present manpower allocation will have to be changed.

"If the decision goes against butter or if manpower is considered a prime necessity, then there is no use in us getting hot and bothered about meeting 1943 food production goals."

P. D. McArthur, Quebec, president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada whose tentative appointment as agricultural representative to the national war services board was announced, in a wire from Ottawa, introduced the manpower question as related to agriculture and said that the time had come when a decision must be made between men and food.

"Give us the tools," he quoted, which in the case of agriculture is men and machines, "and we will do the job."

"Food production should be as important as the production of munitions," he said. "The farmers of Canada will work like Trojans to meet home needs as well as the needs of the nations being freed from the heel of the oppressor."

"They cannot do that unless they are given a chance to plan and the assurance that their plans will not be nullified by indecision or short notice changes."

MEASURES TO BE TAKEN FOR A COMPREHENSIVE PLAN OF NATIONAL SOCIAL INSURANCE

CONTINUING PLAN

Australia—Not Cutting Contribution Of Men For Air Training

Canberra.—Air Minister Drakeford said there is no truth in a suggestion heard in some quarters that because of Australia's manpower problem there would be a diminution of the Dominion's aircrew contribution under the combined training organization. He said the plan will continue until 1945, as agreed among the countries concerned.

AUSTRALIAN CASUALTIES

Canberra.—Prime Minister John Curtin told parliament that from the outbreak of the war to the end of December total Australian battle casualties in all theatres were 52,148. The number comprised 6,826 killed, 23,892 missing, 9,059 known prisoners and 12,371 wounded.

Ottawa.—To make freedom from fear and want "the assured possession of all," the government proposes "a comprehensive national scheme of social insurance," it was announced in the speech from the throne read at the opening of parliament.

The speech said it is proposed to work out post-war security plans "at once" and that they will "constitute a charter of social security for the whole of Canada."

For this purpose, the government will recommend the early appointment of a select committee "to examine and report on the most practical measures of social insurance and the steps which will be required to ensure their inclusion in a national plan."

Emphasis upon the necessity of guarding against major economic and social hazards which may arise at the end of hostilities was the feature of the speech read by the Earl of Athlone, governor-general of Canada. The objective will be to ensure "adequate incomes for primary producers and full employment after the war." A national system of health insurance is also proposed.

Other measures promised in the speech include:

1. Provision for appointment of parliamentary assistants to those ministers whose duties are particularly onerous because of war's demands.
2. A bill for redistribution of representation in the House of Commons.
3. Further development of the method of payment of the personal income tax "in the year in which income is received."
4. A measure to provide establishment of a "Canadian war supplies allocation board" to provide for the financing and allocation of Canadian war production for the United Nations.
5. Increased responsibilities to be assumed for the maintenance of Canadian airmen and Canadian squadrons serving abroad.

The speech said appointment of a joint committee representative of the agriculture departments of Canada and U.S. has been agreed upon to coordinate food production for the United Nations.

Single Men Must Register By March 1

Single men, required by a recent proclamation to register under the military call-up must comply with the order by March 1 in order to put themselves in good standing with these regulations, Mr. Francis J. Lote, manager of the district employment and selective service office, stated this week. They may register at employment and selective service offices, or at mobilization board offices or post offices.

Only single men who have not received notices to report for medical examination under the military call-up, and who were born in 1902 and the following years up to and including 1923, must report, Mr. Lote said, pointing out that men who did receive their notices, and who as a result were medically examined by personal physicians, are not now required to report.

To clear up further any confusion about the exact definition of the men who must report by March 1, Mr. Lote stated: "The term single man includes any man who was unmarried at July 15, 1940, whether he has since been married or not; also, any man who was a widower, or was legally separated or divorced at July 15, 1940, and who had no dependent children at that time, or who, if he had a dependent child at July 15, 1940, no longer has a dependent child or children. It further includes all men who have become widowers, or were legally separated or divorced since July 15, 1940, and who now have no child or children dependent on them. Any of these men who did not previously receive notice to report for medical examination, must register by March 1."

Many men, at present in the Armed Forces, did not receive notices to report; obviously these are exempt from the order, Mr. Lote stated.

Since the issuance of the proclamation which requires this registration by single men, twenty-three men have reported at the district employment office, located in Blairmore, it was stated, and twenty-five men have also reported through the post office.

The Best Answers

(The Red Deer Advocate) During the campaigns to raise funds for War Services work, many of the canvassers were told by those they approached that they wouldn't give to the Red Cross because it sold goods supposed to be for the troops. And even today people who should know better tell other people that there is no guarantee that the funds of the Red Cross are used as the authorities say they are used. These butlers for Hitler, because that is what they are, consciously or unconsciously, have had their answer in no uncertain terms from the men who were taken prisoner at Dieppe. Almost without exception, their letters to their relatives tell of their gratitude to the Red Cross and of what it is doing for them. What would be their position today without the good offices of the Red Cross? It is not a pleasant subject to contemplate. Eighty thousand food parcels a week are going from Canada to British and Canadian prisoners of war, surely a magnificent job in itself, but only one of many done by the Red Cross organization. The next time anyone makes a belittling crack to you about the Red Cross, just refer them to the men in the prison camps. They know the answer.

Brides and Matrons Dress Much Alike These Days, Experts Point Out, and There are Aids to Youth

By DOROTHY ROE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, (CP)—Look twice, Mr. Furlough Bridegroom—that girl you're grabbing at the altar may be the bride's mother.

It's hard to tell them apart these days, says Wilma Allen, who has been outfitting brides and their mothers for 22 years. The bride's mother has changed a lot in the last generation. She has gone down in weight from a size 40, formerly standard, to a size 16. Often the girl and her mother wear the same size in everything right down to the slippers, which are ordered in white for the bride, in a pastel tint for mother. Miss Allen, bridal consultant for one of Fifth Avenue's famous shops, has 215 weddings "in work" at the moment, expects to launch 1,000 girls in full matrimonial regalia by the end of 1942. This is stepping up her "war production" considerably. She wrapped up and delivered 772 weddings in 1941.

Same Many Ways Nowadays the bride and her mother often wear their hair in the same style, order identical hats—white for the bride, pastel for the mother. When the bride is wearing a formal white gown, the mother asks for a "simple dress such as you would show my daughter." Usually it's a shawl of roses, rose-beige or melody-blue in color, flattering and fitted in style.

The mother of today's war bride is young in years, usually just slipping into the 40's, because brides are younger. Probably she was a bride herself just one war ago. She's more romantic than her daughter, brings heirloom jewels to wear with the wedding gown, supervises the bouquet and the wedding picture, turns up at the wedding looking like the bride's sister.

The Second Case

Two magistrates were summoned for exceeding the speed limit. When they arrived at court there were no other magistrates present, so they decided to try each other. Number one went on the Bench and the case proceeded. "You are charged with exceeding the speed limit. Do you plead guilty or not guilty?" "Guilty!" "You will be fined five shillings." They then changed places and again the plea was "guilty." "If it was the response. "These cases are becoming far too common. This is the second we have had this morning. You will be fined thirty shillings."—Tit-Bits.

World News In Brief

Britain's Coal
NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (CP)—Britain's estimated coal consumption this year exceeds present output by 250,000 tons a week, Maj. Lloyd George, minister of fuel and power, said here. "If it were possible this year to run the country without railway transport we would just about balance the coal deficit," he added.

British Harvests
LONDON (CP)—The harvest is about complete in Britain but Land Army Girls are still being recruited at a rate of 1,000 a month. There's always work to be done on the farm.

Under Queen's Cover
LONDON (CP)—Two British babies are going to sleep under cot covers knitted by Queen Mary. They'll go to the two mothers of a London Clinic who make the best show at baby keeping this year.

LONDON (CP)—British preference for white bread has its foundation in a centuries-old idea that white bread was the food of the lord and black bread, made largely of rye, of the peasant, said Dr. J. C. Drummond, scientific adviser to the Ministry of Food.

After Leon Blum
GENEVA (CP)—The Vichy government in France has seized under the anti-Jewish laws all the personal property of Leon Blum, former premier and Riom trial war guilt prisoner.

Back to Windmills
LONDON (CP)—Many ancient windmills and watermills, which long ago became landmarks of industrial progress have been overhauled and refitted to help save fuel and transport in Britain.

Made Drunk Then Killed
OXFORD, England (CP)—Farmers are to adopt new tactics in their war against the wood pigeon—the birds are to be intoxicated and made helpless before being killed, supplanted by alcoholic narcotic introduced into bait.

Czech Cultivation
Forty-five per cent of the available land in Czechoslovakia has been set aside by its German conquerors for compulsory cultivation.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23, (CP)—One contestant for the title of "champion service men's letter writer" is Rose Marie Cindrich 18, of Beuna Vista, Pa., who writes no fewer than 225 men in Uncle Sam's army, navy and air services. In the past year and a half, she says, she has dated 1,000 fellows. Her pictures in the papers have her looking a little tired. Well, who wouldn't be?

IMPORTANT AS SOLDIERS
SALISBURY, England (CP)—Shortage of housing accommodation for farm workers brought this comment from Judge Edward Cave: "The position should be that instructions could be given that a house was needed on a farm and that unless it was put up in 14 days someone should be hanged. Farm laborers are as important as soldiers."

Joined the C.W.A.C.
Victoria Eluechuk, student, of Turin, has joined the C.W.A.C., Calgary. She is the daughter of Mrs. Elisabeth Eluechuk, Turin. Bessie Marian Matthews, of Turin, daughter of Mr. James Matthews, of No. 7 S.F.T.S., Macleod, has joined the C.W.A.C., Calgary.

Uncle Sam in Australia
MELBOURNE (CP)—In corners in most Australia's big cities the American Red Cross has clubs where its servicemen dunk their doughnuts and eat a meal like those "mom" makes at home.

Organ of St. Paul's
LONDON (CP)—A small organ in St. Paul's Cathedral, last used during the restoration of the edifice, has been repaired and put into commission for service in the Nave. Built by Henry Willis in 1881 it contains eight stops and is hand blown.

Corn Parade—'tion'
LONDON (CP)—Footsore war service women have their corns and callouses removed with expert care since chiropodists have been added to the service. Their work is considered as important as medical and dental service.

To Church Uncovered
BRISTOL, Eng. (CP)—Women may now go into Bristol Cathedral bareheaded. The dean removed the ban and said many women who would enter the cathedral gassed by because their heads were uncovered.

Rubber From Wood
A synthetic rubber from wood products has been developed in Sweden, suitable for bicycle tires but not for motor cars.

THE AMERICAN WAY
MELBOURNE, (CP)—When an American medical unit arrived in an Australian town they found no hospital so they requisitioned a complete street of houses and connected them by footbridge and covered ways.

In Bombed Plymouth
Plymouth, England (CP)—Lord Astor has agreed to serve as Lord Mayor of Plymouth for the fourth consecutive year, thus establishing a new record for Plymouth's 500 years' mayoralty roll.

Sleep Switching
BATH, Eng. (CP)—Topping alibi for blackout offences, Florence Hughes, fined the equivalent of $7, said she must have switched on the light in her room while she slept.

New With Old Dress
LONDON (CP)—Two Netherlanders have written a new song which is popular in Holland. It goes to the tune of "Deutschland unter Altes" but its title is "1,000 (Bombers) in One Night" and it ridicules German terror during R.A.F. raids.

Mining For Flint
NORWICH, England, (CP)—Shortage of flints for cigarette lighters is reviving a 400-year-old Norfolk industry—the mining of flint. This kind of mining hasn't flourished much since the days of flintlock guns.

Wooden Heels of Britain
LONDON (CP)—Women's high-heeled shoes have gone for the duration and Louis heels—that is heels which curve into the instep are to be banned from Nov. 1. Heels are to be of wood and must not exceed 2½ inches in height.

Safe 'Hellfire Corner'
LONDON (CP)—Mrs. E. Ford went through all the bombing and shelling of Britain's "Hellfire Corner" during the past two years then went for a holiday on the coast and was killed by a bomb from a hit-and-run daylight raider.

Prisoners Harvest Crops
CHICAGO, California (AP)—Shortage of harvest hands in California is no joke. In addition to closing stores and schools to make help available, all inmates of the local prison were paroled for the purpose.

Carats with Carrot
MANCHESTER (CP)—It was literally a 19-carat carrot Mrs. D. Wallis plucked from her front lawn allotment. Around the carrot was an 18-carat gold ring she had lost four years ago.

So many Germans have been reported killed on the Russian front and a few hundred thousand captured, besides half a million or so Italians, that we believe there should be an early end to the war through exhaustion of man power.

Granny Takes Her Shifts
LONDON (CP)—Mrs. Marion Howard, 62-year-old grandmother of 11 children and mother of eight, works an eight-hour shift, day or night, in a Ministry of Supply factory.

Kissing Time Anytime
EASTBOURNE, Eng. (CP)—Anytime is kissing time at this Sussex town. The council has installed a kissing cage because, in the words of a councillor, "Christmas and mistletoe come only once a year."

"Fit" at 104
WINCHESTER, Eng. (CP)—Mrs. F. O. Pitt, celebrated her 104th birthday at Shawford, a nearby village. She spends most of her time knitting and her health is "fit, very fit," she said.

India's Casualties
NEW DELHI (CP)—The Indian defence department has announced India's war losses in theatres amount to 98,388 men including 2,066 killed, 8,521-wounded, 2,938 prisoners and 84,833 missing.

CANBERRA, (CP)—Nearly a million children are now endowed by the Australian Commonwealth Government under the scheme which came into operation last year. In addition, 274,000 old age pensions and 60,000 invalid pensions are in force.

Can Live to 300
LONDON (CP)—Dr. Maurice Ernest, founder of the Centenarian club whose members are 100 years old or aspire to be, declares human beings "can live to be 300 years old." He himself is 70.

Two Baby Hogs Started Girl's School Dowsy of $5,000 in Four Years.

CROWN POINT, Ind. (CP)—Rosy-cheeked Dorothy Jean Homfeld has amassed $5,000 from the hog business and she's retiring at 17. Her goal—to save enough for four years at Purdue University—achieved; Dorothy's selling out.

Four years ago Dorothy Jean bought two baby pigs, great-granddaughter of "Blue Boy," the big pig made famous by the late Will Rogers in the movie "State Fair." She still has those two pigs—named Dew Drop and Blue Belle, and both have become champions. The sun-tanned farmette during her years of hog-raising rose daily at 6:30 and kept going until 10 or 11 at night. Yet she insists:

"I don't think it's so unusual. A farm girl likes to have many interests, and none of mine are especially unusual."

Musician Too
Meanwhile, her "many interests" included learning to play the piano, flute and piccolo, in 1941 being acclaimed the most outstanding 4-H Club Girl in Lake County sewing her own clothing for daily and formal wear and typing her father's business letters. And she never missed a day of high school.

A single episode that shows Dorothy Jean's keenness as a hog-raiser occurred last spring when a terrific midwest blizzard halted many producers from getting through to the Chicago market. Visualizing a resulting high market, she persuaded two neighbor boys to help her with offers of "a good cash bonus," and loaded a dozen 300-pound hogs onto a wagon.

She drove the small tractor through sub-freezing temperatures and over 50 miles of hazardous roads, finally arriving at the stockyard. She anticipated she scored "a hit" on an extremely high hog market. Next morning she showed worried parents a check for $1,500.

Eve Was First Tailorless, They Say, but Men May Have to Carry Handbags

LONDON (CP)—More than 900 of London's best tailors attended a meeting to discuss the present state of the trade and, said a local newspaper, "they were the saddest group of tailors who have ever come together since the creditors of Beau Brummel met."

Indeed it was a sad meeting as these members of the world's oldest trade—"for Eve"—to first tailorless when she made Adam's fig-leaf suit; they were told—almented the passing of the trouser turn-up, the reduction from four waistcoat pockets to two and the end of the double-breasted coat.

"Men are afraid of the austerity suit," it was claimed. "They think they look like marked men in them." One tailor argued that the suit, which saved 10 per cent material, was imposed for political and not economic reasons.

"Where are men going to keep their glasses, tobacco pouch, pens, pencils, cigarettes, money (if any), watch and papers?" asked another. "Where does Mr. Churchill keep his cigars?"

Possibly, it was suggested, they could carry a flat handbag as women did when pockets went out of fashion. "They life is hard these days for the solons of Saville Row."

Even Up
"I'd fire you in a minute," cried the irascible manager. "If I thought I could get another man to take your place."
"And I'd quit in a minute," signed the weary clerk. "If I had I was through with my night course in welding."

If you think your community is punk, before you say too much, just sit down and ponder a while over the things you have done to make it a better place in which to live. Then govern your observations by the yardstick of your performance. — Bowmanville Statesman

There was a young salesman named Phipps, Who married on one of his trips A widow named Block. But he got quite a shock, When he found there were six little chaps!

Another "Unwritten Law"
LONDON (CP)—Frederick Cook failed to beat a charge of stealing gasoline from his employers when he said he took the gas for a friend under an unwritten law—"The Old Pals Act" but the court wasn't impressed and fined him the equivalent of $45.

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

CARE OF THE TEETH

"Teeth are like wives. Neglect 'em and you're headed for trouble," declares a pamphlet entitled "Be Kind to Your Teeth," just released by the Industrial Division of the Health League of Canada for distribution among industrial workers. Accompanying the pamphlet is a striking cartoon-style poster illustrating how even a toothache can cut down vital work production, which is available for use on factory notice boards at a nominal charge.

"Be Kind to Your Teeth" points out that a decayed tooth, if neglected, may lead to chronic, serious, or even fatal illness. Such foods as candy, sugar cakes, pastry (the refined carbohydrate foods) should be used in strict moderation as their excessive use contribute to dental decay. On the other hand, the pamphlet advises, uncooked foods such as green vegetables, raw fruits and dairy products are good for the teeth. Meat and eggs are needed for vitamins—except vitamin D which is provided by sunlight in the summer. During the fall and winter months cod liver oil or other fish oil added to the diet furnishes vitamin D. Exercise for the teeth is necessary if they are to be healthy, it is stated. Vigorous chewing of food does the trick.

Proper care of the teeth, it emphasizes, includes brushing them after each meal, using a small toothbrush with well separated tufts; the use of dental floss or cotton thread drawn between the teeth to remove food particles; brushing the upper teeth downward and the lower teeth upward; brushing vigorously the top surface of back teeth, and washing the mouth out with clean water.

Periodic examinations by a careful dentist are essential, it is stated. At least one visit a year is necessary. A good dentist will stress prevention—frequent cleaning of the teeth, the filling of small cavities, early recognition and treatment of infection of the gums.

Last time from work is lost wages, points out the pamphlet. It costs less to prevent than to cure. This is the third of a series of publications designed to keep industrial workers on the job.

This attractive small person takes the business of eating seriously as he tucks into his supper of cereal and milk. Canada's Nutrition Program is vitally concerned with building a strong Canada by improving the health of all its citizens through better nutrition. Milk and cereals should play an important role in the diets of both young and old.

Soldiers From Ireland

Some Of Britain's Most Brilliant Fighters Were Born There

The fact that General Sir Bernard Law Montgomery, whose army has covered itself with glory in Africa, is a North of Ireland man, reminds us, despite De Valera's attitude, thousands of South of Ireland men are also fighting in the British services—and no warriors can be doughtier.

It used to be pointed out that Lords Roberts, Wolseley, Kitchener and the Duke of Wellington were all born in Ireland—and so they were. The Kitcheners, who had lived for centuries in Suffolk, were not really Irish people, though the great general's father, Col. H. H. Kitchener, lived in Kerry, where the field marshal-to-be was born.

The Duke of Wellington was born near Dublin, but educated at Eton. He was in character a typical English aristocrat. As English as his ancestors who, sent there as an emissary of Henry VIII, had obtained an estate on which the family lived for centuries. Once when someone referred to Napoleon's conqueror as an Irishman, Daniel O'Connell remarked sarcastically: "Being born in a stable doesn't make a man a horse, does it?"

Farm Machinery

Greater Machinery Care By Farmers Is Needed To Make Equipment Last

In a recent speech, the administrator of farm machinery for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board emphasized very strongly that there was the need for greater care of machinery by the farmers of Canada. The entire farm machinery situation—the need for rationing of new machinery, and the need for more co-operative use of existing machinery and equipment on the farms—formed the salient feature of his speech.

During December farm machinery rationing offices were established in many centres across the dominion, the men placed in charge of the offices being fully acquainted with the farming problems of the territory in which they are located and also familiar with the needs of the farmers.

RATIONING IN HAITI

When electric power was recently rationed in Haiti it decreased the ice made by home refrigerators, causing an extra demand on commercial ice producers, who in turn had to reduce production because of less electricity, and the situation became so bad that the ice producers quit.

JESUS AFFIRMS HIS DEITY

Golden text: He that hath seen me hath seen the Father. John 14:9. Lesson: John 8:12-58. Devotional reading: Philippians 2:1-11.

Explanations and Comments
The Witness Borne by Jesus to Himself. John 8:12-58. Again, verse 12, refers us back to 7:37. Verses 12-10:21 are evidently a continuation of the narrative about the Feast of Tabernacles which has been interrupted by 7:52-8:11. Again therefore Jesus spoke unto them, saying, I am the light of the world. "Though he had spoken a great deal to them to little purpose, and what he had said was opposed, yet he spoke again," observes Matthew Henry. According to the Talmud, on every night of the feast the Court of the Women was brilliantly lighted by the two colossal golden candelsticks which recalled the light of the pillar of fire in the wilderness; and it was fitting, therefore, that Jesus should contrast himself with these and all other lights.

He that followeth me shall not walk in the darkness, but shall have the light of life, that is the light necessary to maintain spiritual life. "It was characteristic of Jesus Christ to declare himself to be the light for practical ends. Light is glorious in itself, it is its own evidence and needs neither herald nor argument. Christ might have compared himself to light in either of these respects. But light is also practical, calling to life and action, and it is clear from our Lord's word that this was the sense in which he gave himself the name. On each of the occasions on which he used it he coupled it with a distinct call to progress or to labor. 'I am the Light of the world; he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness.' The night cometh when no man can work; as long as I am in the world I am the Light of the World.' Yet a little while is the Light with you; walk while ye have the Light.' You see his meaning. Like the sun he shines not to be gazed at but to be used. To man he is to be what the sun is for movement and for work" (George Adam Smith).

Reports Across Canada Claim That Hens Are Laying Like Mad

Just as if the Hen World had heard about the Canadian Nutrition Program and all the nice things the Nutritionists say about the wonderful food value of eggs, Canadian hens are laying for all they're worth—brown eggs, white eggs, speckled eggs.

Of course the color of the shell doesn't affect the food value of the egg one bit, though there are still people who say they wouldn't give two cents a dozen for eggs that are brown, while others insist that a brown-shelled egg is vastly superior to any other.

Canada's Official Food Rules say that everyone should have at least three or four eggs a week and recommend one a day when possible. Eggs, like meat are a building of protein food and they may take the place of meat in the main meal of the day. They are also valuable as providers of iron, Vitamin A and the B vitamins, and are one of the few foods which supply a small amount of the sunshine vitamin D.

According to Nutrition Services, there is no difference in food value between eggs graded A, B, or C, though there is a difference in price and flavor. The lower grade and less expensive eggs may be used in dishes where other flavors predominate.

It is important that eggs and egg dishes be cooked at low temperatures for high heat toughens the protein.

SANDS OF HAZARD

By J. B. RYAN

CHAPTER V.

"MONSIEUR STOREY? The thin sound of a muted voice came out of the darkness.

Storey strained to see the owner of the voice, but could not. "I am not asleep," he answered, equally softly.

At once a flashlight shone, brightening the cell and revealing Storey's stealthy visitor to be Captain Lebeau.

"Do not raise your voice," Lebeau cautioned urgently. "My soldiers are all asleep. You and I are the only ones awake in the entire building."

Storey nodded, and the officer continued apologetically: "I could not free you at once, monsieur, until I had sent Ismeddin a message that would cause him to relax his vigilance. He has been told that you are giving me the help you are giving me, Captain."

"I don't want you killed in Ain Saffa," Lebeau said, almost crossly. "Lord knows I have trouble enough without having the murder of an American on my hands. If you will follow me I shall conduct you out of this building and see you safely to a gate where your friend Mohammed waits for you."

The captain shaded his torch and opened the door. In the hall, Storey paused to inquire, "But what of Mademoiselle Fournier?"

"She remains here," said Lebeau. "You will do well, monsieur, to get that dangerous woman. She has told us both nothing but lies. Sergeant Jardin returned this evening. There is no doubt in my mind that she is taking those sheep to the railroad at Touggourt."

Reluctantly, Jack Storey followed Lebeau down the silent passage. He was leaving Annette Fournier in this dungeon, abandoning her—the girl who had risked and lost her liberty because of him.

Captain Lebeau unlocked a door and the two men were in an odorous alley at the rear of the building. "We must still be quiet," said Lebeau. "If we are seen by a Kahlir or even one of the townsmen, Ismeddin will be upon us."

"Won't he raise Cain any when he discovers I am gone?"

"What can he do? In the morning I shall inform him that I released you during the night, and I shall express surprise that he wasn't around when you left."

A SERIES of alleys led them through the sleeping town to the wall that enclosed the oasis. Lebeau unbarred a small gate and Storey was gazing on a flat of starlit sand.

"Haudidullah!" From the outer side of the high wall a man with a slanted turban stepped beside Storey. "Welcome, saidi!"

Behind Mohammed ibn Muli were four towering, grotesque silhouettes against the sky—the two hejins and the baggage camels, ready to take Storey and the shepherd away from Ain Saffa.

Yet the prospect of escape did not cheer Storey. Something drew his eyes away from the camels to the open gate behind him. Back there, awaiting her doom, was Annette Fournier.

"Adieu, Monsieur Storey," said Captain Lebeau, and turned to place his hand on the wooden gate.

He was only a step away from Storey. With a swift movement, the American erased that distance, his left arm whipping under the chin and around the neck of Lebeau.

"Be quiet, Monsieur le Capitaine!" Storey's automatic pressed against the ribs of the struggling Lebeau. "I regret to do this, after what you have done for me, but my conscience leaves me no choice."

The helpless officer subsided, and over the shoulder of the passive man Storey spoke to the open-mouthed shepherd. "A rope, Mohammed, to bind his hands and feet."

"But, master?" expostulated Mohammed. "Are you mad? The Franzawi is our friend—"

"Don't argue!" snapped Storey. "Fetch me a rope!"

Mohammed darted to the nearest of the laden camels and returned with a coil of cord. Not until the arms of Lebeau were secured did Storey relax his locked arm. Half the Frenchman sat on the ground to allow Mohammed to rope his ankles, he glowered at Storey.

"Is this necessary, monsieur? Nom de Dieu, having brought you becoming impatient. Will you open that door, thou dog's son, or must I shoot you with this pistol and then open it myself?"

"Very well," came the voice of the guard. "I shall do as you say, but you must explain matters to Capt. Lebeau when he arrives."

The fingers of Storey still gripped the key he had pulled out of the lock when he had closed the door. His hand moved swiftly, jamming the key into the opening of the lock. There was a click of the bolt shot home, and in almost the same motion he reversed the key, giving it a half-turn that would keep it from falling or being pushed out of the keyhole.

He heard the puzzled voice of the guard on the other side of the door: "What was that?"

"I heard nothing," thou nervous fool," snapped Ismeddin. "Open that door. I heard you turn the bolt in the lock."

"That is the sound I mean. But it could not have been the lock. I have not yet inserted the key into the opening."

"Then our cars have played a trick on us. Suppose you open that door or let me do it for you."

The Care Of Cutlery

Knives Should Be Sharpened Frequently And Stored Properly

Take the advice of the Prices Board's consumer section and banish dull and inefficient knives from your drawers. Knives are more easily kept sharp and in good condition if stored properly when not in use.

Don't toss knives into a drawer with other kitchen utensils, since edges become blunted from chafing against each other. Use knives only for purposes for which they are designed.

For instance, the edge of a carving knife may be blunted by cutting bread. Wash knives immediately after use and sharpen them frequently, without applying too much pressure.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER

Buck it up right now!

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It pours out bile to digest food, gets rid of waste, supplies new energy, allows proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order food decomposes in your intestines. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "trotter" — headache, backache, dizziness, dragged out all the time.

For over 25 years thousands have won prompt relief from these miseries — with Fruit-A-Tives. So can you. Try Fruit-A-Tives — you'll be simply delighted how quickly you'll feel like a new person, happy and well again. 25c, 50c.

Food In Germany

Diet Said To Be Only Slightly Worse Than Last Year

Germany's diet is much poorer than that of wartime North America, but its food position is far from critical, the Office of War Information reports on the basis of data reaching the Board of Economic Warfare and other agencies of the United States Government.

Despite the Nazis' thorough milking of the produce of the occupied countries, the German diet is coarse, monotonous and lacking in such edible foods as meat, animal fats and white bread, the O.W.I. said.

Food production in Axis-held Europe in the 1942-1943 crop year will fall short of ordinary civilian requirements, it was said, but it is not expected seriously to impair the German war effort.

Government data indicates the German diet will be only slightly worse this year than last, with shortages of fats and livestock remaining the sore spots in the Axis food economy.

First Man To Transmit Music By Telephone Is Dead

William Harris, 83, who played the first musical instrument ever heard over a telephone—a cornet—died recently in Brantford, Ont. He was one of the oldest residents of Terrace Hill, where he had lived for 62 years. He took part in a now-famous concert, arranged by Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, to prove the success of his invention. The concert was heard in Paris, Ont. Bell's daughter was one of the entertainers. She sang. Mr. Harris followed her on the program. Mrs. B. Morris, daughter of Mr. Harris, said the telephone wires were stretched along fences from Brantford to Paris, seven miles away. Bell had selected the cornet as a suitable instrument for first tests on the telephone because of its sharp, clear-carrying notes. Mr. Harris' solo was "Then You'll Remember Me."

A Youthful Population

Over Half Of People In Saskatchewan Are 24 Or Less

Men outnumber women by nearly 60,000 in Saskatchewan where the population in 1941 was 885,992, the Dominion bureau of statistics said in issuing final national census figures for the province.

During the 10 years since the last census in 1931, the population dropped 25,793 from 921,785, reflecting drought conditions during the 30's which caused many residents to move to other provinces.

In 1941 there were 477,563 men and 418,429 women.

The records showed the province still has a predominantly youthful population. Of the total, 449,182, or more than half, were 24 years old or less.

SMILE AWHILE

Skemp—Just before Joe Smith died he made his wife promise she wouldn't marry again.

Snappy—That was just like Joe—always doing something to help his fellow-man.

"Who was that lady I seen you out with last night?"

"I wasn't really out. I was just dozing."

"Boy, I'm scared! I just got a letter from a man telling me he'd shoot me if I didn't stay away from his wife."

"Well all you have to do is stay away from his wife."

"Yeah, but he didn't sign his name."

Mrs. Youngbride—Our cook says those eggs you sent yesterday were quite old.

Farmer—Very, very sorry, ma'am. They were the best we could get. You see, all the young chickens have been killed off, so the old hens are the only ones left to do the laying.

Boss—Ah, you are the young man in question. What's your name?

Applicant—Ivan Auszeimchmungen-cuteki.

Boss—How do you spell it?

Applicant—The way it is pronounced.

Panhandlers may soon be saying, "Gimme a dime, Mister, and I'll tell you where you can get a cup of coffee. —Quote.

Last week we heard about the old Negro who was taking a civil service examination for the job of mail carrier. One of the questions was:

"How far is it from the earth to the sun?"

The old darky looked frightened and exclaimed: "If you all is gwinter put me on that route, I'ze resignin' befo' I begins."

Customer: "Remember that cheese you sold me yesterday?"

Grocer: "Yes, madam."

Customer: "Did you say it was imported or deported from Switzerland?" —Capper's Weekly.

Thelma: "I could never see why they always call a boat 'she'."

Ben: "Evidently you never tried to steer one."

"George, am I as dear to you as I was before we were married?"

"Ah, in those days I didn't count the cost!"

COWBOY SONGS JOLLY AT ALL PARTIES

Old Favorites in Songbook

Red cowboy songs go over big at gay get-togethers! Everybody gathers round the songbook and warbles his favorite. "The Dreamy Black Hills" is a bit grizzly, but they love it!

For old Sitting Bull or Comanche Bills, They will take off your scalp on the dreamy Black Hills.

They love the tender, dreamy "Red River Valley," too. Remember in "Grapes of Wrath" when Tom sang it to Ma Joed?

"Cor and ait by my side if you love me. Do not hasten, to bid me adieu..."

But "Git Along Little Dogies" is the one that gives you the real flavor of cowboy life!

"It's early in Spring that we round up the dogies."

We mark them and brand them and hob off their tails.

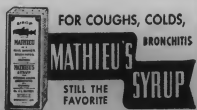

We round up our horses, load up the chuck wagon, Aid then throw the dogies out onto the trail."

Our songbook has words and music of 18 Western songs everyone loves, with piano and some guitar accompaniments. Includes "Little Old Shanty," "Bury Me Not On The Lone Prairie."

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Popular Cowboy Songs" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.
